

RSARS RALLY REPORTS No.86

Callington Radio Club Rally Report 6 April 2014

Sunday, 6th April, The Callington Club held their Radio Rally in the Town-Hall, Callington, a small town in Cornwall. It was a very modest affair in a new location, they having lost their previous premises due to a change in the thinking of the new Headmaster.

I thought that it was a very friendly affair, ideal for fellow Amateurs to meet each other in a convivial atmosphere, which really is what Radio Rallies are all about nowadays. We had 99 people through the door, a lot more than I thought, with 13 traders and 12 Stewards.

I sold a peaked cap and an antenna book, and issued two application forms to people wishing to join RSARS.

The two people in the photo(below) were rather interesting. He is refurbishing an old WW2 truck, complete with a Canadian no9 set complete, so I and a few others gathered round to see how we could help him understand the manual. This brought more people round the table, which in turn led to a couple of ex-Servicemen making initial enquiries about joining RSARS. One never knows. Anyway, it was good day indoors, a very wet one outside, and a thoroughly enjoyable event.
